

Here's a few easy ways to forecast the weather!

- 1) Watch your camp fire. If the smoke rises high and steady, the weather will (most likely) not change. However, if the smoke is swirling or is beaten down after rising a short distance, then a low pressure system is approaching and stormy conditions are soon to follow.
- 2) Sounds carry farther when wet weather is approaching. The smell of the vegetation is more distinctive just before it rains.
- 3) People with curly hair will find their hair becoming tight and out of control when bad weather is approaching.
- 4) Red sky at sun down indicates low moisture in the atmosphere and rain is not likely within the next few hours. A red sky in the morning tells you a storm is coming soon. A gray morning indicates a dry day, but a gray evening sky tells you it may rain soon.
